Hey Sam, Hey Salil!

I finally managed to get some important things done in Wordpress - these are mostly under-the-hood changes, but they will also provide more comfort for the readers and especially for us as writers.

The first thing you might have noticed already: There is now a panel for the Download link - You don't need to add and link it in the content anymore, Wordpress does automatically formats the url to "Download". Please note that the URL needs "HTTP://" before the URL, otherwise it will link to Macgamescout (this is an error by Wordpress, no clue why).

I have also updated all posts with the new download link. There have been also many posts which I forgot to tag (when I "released" the Intel and PPC tags). I am currently thinking about a "Needs Rosetta"-tag or similar.

By viewing the posts again, I noticed that I made some weird tagging (Shooter = FPS) etc. I will think about a rational tagging system the next days.

The second important thing is: I have almost imported Macappscout! There is now a button called "Apps" in the menubar, which will display only posts categorized in the category (you might have guessed): "Apps". Macappscout will become completely integrated to Macgamescout (though macappscout.org will stay, it will redirect to macgamscout.org/apps) So if you want to post applications, please use this category :)

More to come, more work to get done.

Thanks again for helping me and making Macgamescout so much better :)

Have a nice day

—Nelson

Cool, thanks Nelson! Sounds good on all fronts. You might check out http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Video_game_genres for inspiration on which tags to use (although you've got most of them down already). I'll make my first post once the site's back up.

Also: hi Salil, aka (I assume) burnedsap, nice to meet you!

Thanks Sam, good input!

I will also review the Apps-tags...(i also need to set new images etc....but this will be done tomorrow I guess)
Once the "system" works I will make the last things (like the menu design, which at the moment looks awful :D)

Sam, I saw you made a draft, which you haven't published yet :D

Cheers

Okay,

Almost everything has been fixed (just some small bugs, especially with the grid - but I think I will fit that one too).
You can now happily post (Sam, I have published your drafts).

One thing I have changed is that it is necessary to put an application post into the category "alphabetically" AND "apps"
(this was due to differentiate normal posts (games, apps) from updates etc.)

Cheers,
Nelson :)

Looks like was able to edit just fine! You could upgrade my account to Editor if you're interested in having typos corrected when I see them ;) Thanks for all your hard work getting the website back online!

Also, sorry about sending you emails from all these different accounts.. I'm still sorting out which one I want to use, hahaha.

Great !
Ok, did upgrade you to "Editor" - if you find typos you can fix them if you want, but you dont need too :) Thank you!

Thank you, yeah that was a whole bunch of work - but I am glad that I finally got this fixed and done. I think the new theme is the best yet, especially in usability (besides it made me fix many errors I made in the past).

Don't worry about your email - its alright :D

Awesome, thanks! As you may have surmised, I've already started going through from the oldest posts, fixing typos in addition to dead links and adding the game name at the beginning of the review where you'd omitted it before. Don't worry, I'm a bit of a perfectionist, so I'm doing this for fun rather than work :)

Awesome Sam!
Yes I am a bit of a perfectionist as well, thats why I do all of this work :D

Yeah, at the beginning, I didnt write reviews, rather copying the game description from the developer's website due to the fact that I had so many games to collect. When I had most of them I googled nights and days for new to discovered and collected a bunch of resources (if you go to info - there is a page with many links, though i think you might know it already ;))

If there is a game you really want to review you can simply delete the old description and write your own (those, who are copied and have no Title at the begining - you will probably also recognize them by the style of writing)

Thanks for your efforts! I am glad that you have as much fun as I have with this website!

Yep, I've actually been through almost all the sites on that info page and downloaded every mac game I could get my hands on! About 150 so far; now I need to play them all ;). I'll probably stick to writing new reviews for now, but I may come back to review a classic if it's deserving!
