

(no subject)

2 messages

Nelson Fritsch <nelsonfritsch@gmail.com>
To: Sam Lloyd

Sun, Sep 2, 2012 at 3:19 PM

Hey Sam,

First I want to thank you how much you support Macgamescout.

I talked to Salil and he is really busy to apply to a university, so he told me that he is not available for Macgamescout for the next months (which is totally ok for me).

Second: I know the current design sucks hard. I already did some work on the new one (which will be endlessly cool, I think). I also found a plugin which let me work on the theme without changing it for other users (silent work).

At the moment I have some truly real-life problems so I stopped working on it. I'm sorry to leave Macgamescout as desperate as it is at the moment, but time will move on and I will finish everything as soon as I can.

Just telling so you know.

Cheers my friend :)

Nelson

--

nelson fritsch | nelsonfritsch.de

Sam Lloyd
To: Nelson Fritsch <nelsonfritsch@gmail.com>

Sun, Sep 2, 2012 at 4:54 PM

Thanks for the message Nelson. I've also been pretty inactive due to a new job and a big move of location taking up most of my time. Plus I've been too addicted to Battle Nations to play anything else ;) So looks like MGS will take a little nap, and that's OK. It's important not to let hobbies take over your life (unless they make you money, heh heh heh). Hopefully we can finish the revamp once we're all a bit less busy (looking forward to the endless coolness!). OK if I post something to this effect as an update on the site?

Sam

[Quoted text hidden]